

Product Proposal (One Pager)

Product Proposal

Discuss the following question:

- In what ways does a "product proposal" differ from a "report" (PM3)?

Product Proposal	Report
• Looks mainly forward • Tends to be more concise • Uses language to convince	• Looks mainly backward • Tends to be more detailed • Uses language to inform

Function of the Product Proposal

A product proposal introduces a product idea to a specific target audience, such as

- a potential client
- an external funding committee
- your manager / superior
- another department in your company

Your Product Proposal in PM4

Target audience: Non-experts, familiar with very basic tech-knowledge

-> Keep it simple
(but formal)

Format: One-Pager*

-> Keep it short /
decide what's important

Aim: Introduce your product idea: What do you want to do?
Why? Who benefits? What problem do you solve?

-> "Sell" your idea
(but professionally)

see also handout "One Pager Product Proposal" for further details*

Grading (Language)

- 5% of PM4 grade

...of which:

50% "Language" (Vocabulary, Grammar, Style, Syntax)

50% "Format" (Formatting, Structure, Paragraphing, Referencing, Tables & Figures)
