Transitioning

For example, if you have a 4-person team presenting the findings of a research project, logical group presentation transitions could look like this:

- Person 1 – introduction and agenda
Transition: "And now [Person 2] will introduce our project in more detail."
- Person 2 – description of research project and review of literature
Transition: "And now [Person 3] will explain our research methodology."
- Person 3 – methodology of research project
Transition: "And now [Person 4] will discuss our findings."
- Person 4 – findings and implications of your project
Transition: "And now [Person 1] will summarize our project."
- Person 1 – conclusion and question/answer session
Transition: "At this time, we have X minutes to answer your questions."
